

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

It is an object of the present invention to provide a game system which is capable of allowing player's wish to reflect on appearance of event production squares. A game control device 10 is allowed to function as device for displaying a route including plural squares 24A-24F as well as symbols representing attributes of the squares on a screen of a display device 3, device for determining a value to be obtained by a player based on an instruction of the player via an input device 4, device for moving a player character 22 on the route 23 according to the obtained value, device for controlling an peculiar value corresponding to an attribute of the squares based on a stop position of the character 22, device for controlling appearance of event production squares on the route 23 based on the peculiar value, and device for producing an event relating to the event production square under a condition that the event production square and a stop position of the character 22 establish a predetermined relationship.